

Call for tender: Facilitator

European Coalition for Respiratory Health (deadline for applications: 6th April 2020)

EFA is a vibrant alliance of 43 European allergy, asthma and chronic obstructive pulmonary patient associations from 25 countries and works for equal access to good quality care, safe, healthy environment and patient participation.

In 2020, EFA is running a project to create and co-facilitate a European Respiratory Health Coalition integrated by patient organisations and healthcare professionals as equal partners, and supported by public health organisations interested in respiratory health in the European arena.

EFA is looking for an external consultant to help facilitate the first meeting of the coalition and do qualitative research on best coalition building practices.

Background

The European Respiratory Health Coalition is a first-ever initiative.

European level respiratory healthcare professionals and patients do not sit together on a regular basis to find common-ground on how to advance issues affecting them all at the advocacy level. The organisations with an interest in joining the coalition know each other and get frequently in contact to individually participate in thematic policy initiatives and events. Currently, there is no joint work in the long-term at European policy level. These organisations tend to influence European decision independently, not in a coordinated fashion. In the past, there have been joint advocacy initiatives, driven by several organisations together. Some of these initiatives have been successful in reaching a goal, then forgotten.

Description of tasks

EFA, together with another pan-European organisation, will be creating and facilitating o-facilitating the setup of a European Respiratory Health Coalition. It is foreseen that around 10 organisations active at the European level become core Members of the coalition, while around 10 extra ones will become supporters of the coalition.

While the two co-facilitating organisations will focus on bringing everybody to the table and drive the project to meet deliverables and dates, EFA is seeking external, neutral, advocacy savvy consultant to help facilitate two coalition workshops and propose best practices on European coalition building.

The tasks include:

- Facilitate two 1.5hours workshops during the kick-off meeting in May in Brussels. The facilitator will receive a background analysis of the organisations attending the meeting. Prior to the meeting, the facilitator will propose a specific workshop programme based on the background analysis, to allow participants prepare for the discussions. Given current restrictions due to Covid-19, the meeting could be held online.

- Programme and conduct a round of phone interviews with identified successful European coalitions to understand what brings them together, their working methods, and success so far. The interviews will be conducted together with one coalition member.
- Draft a best practices paper addressed to the coalition on successful tips on coalition building at European level, when possible exemplified with case studies extracted from the round of interviews. The paper can also refer to general coalition building strategies.
- Present the best practices paper during a conference call by early September.
